17 - 52	Introductory Dialogue II
		On today’s podcast we will be discussing in a roundtable environment the contagious disease known as Covid-19 and how each of our guests and their local communities have been affected on a personal level by government restrictions. On our roundtable today we’ll be speaking with Brisbane Entrepreneur, Will Hamilton; founder, chairman and member of the Federal Executive of the Australian Federation Party, Rob Newitt; Doug Anderson, a retired US medical professional; and Barbara Jean Lyndsey, the Cosmic Oracle. Let’s begin.

	Host	Doug, on a personal level how has the disease outbreak affected you on a day-to-day basis?
	Doug	[Depressing music] Around here, they’ve closed down a lot of our businesses, so small business operators and employers are at home... and that’s new for them.
	Host	Yes
	Doug	For me, I’m retired... I can do whatever I want.
	Host	What about you Will, what have you experienced?
	Will	I like to go to the parks, like the mountains, like Mount Glorious which is not that far from where I live and just go for a walk in the forest. Apparently now even that’s been banned, and they’ve shut all the parks down. So that disappoints me as I think getting sunlight and getting fresh air and nature is a good way to keep your immune system robust.
	Host	Rob, how have you been doing in Tassie?
	Rob	We’re still permitted to go hunting and shooting if we want. National parks have been shut to people... this area is heavily reliant of tourism. Having no one coming into the state, basically zero flights coming in, it’s really, really impacted on our local smaller communities that would have these people travelling through and for the people with the caravans and the mobile home people that come across on ‘the Spirit’. It’s impacting on those communities you know quite a bit. You are only allowed two tins; now I found this quite funny. I got two cartons of long-life milk and some powdered milk and when I went to the checkout at Woolworths they said, “I can’t have three of those”, and I said, “I don’t have three of those, I’ve only got two of the long life milk in a carton, and I’ve got one packet of powdered milk”. “Oh no, that’s two milk products, you can’t have two of them.”

		So, I'm thinking this is really 'Food Rationing'. The impact that it's having on our society that I don't like is its having shop keepers, staff at Woolworths, people who generally pack shelves or who serve on the checkouts, doing customer service. They are having these people, who are now becoming pseudo-Police because they are checking to see if your social security card before they let you into the shop. This is not their role... it's changing our society. [Background supermarket sound effects]
	Host	Barbara and Doug, considering the number of people still flocking to social gatherings, how unrealistic is social distancing in 2020 for certain age groups?
	Barbara	In the beginning of March there was much more younger people together and not understanding what was going on... actually they are getting it, and do want to do, what's best for themselves and for their friends and for their communities, for the most part. I have hope in them, and mainly because they have more of a global perspective.
	Doug	We had to close the beaches here, the beach strands have been closed because the huge gatherings on the beach, because the weather is warm here now. They closed the strands but then what happened was, that there is an island beach strand just right offshore here and everybody is taking their boats there and docking them and there are literally hundreds of people on this little island. [Background beach sounds]
	Host	Wow (laughs)
	Doug	Yeah. So, they're just looking for ways to get around and the roles and regulations.
